"CONCERT PROGRAM ENTIRELY UNWORTHY OF WERRENRATH"

H. G. O. Criticizes Artist's Appearance Here

PRAISES SINGING

But Program Meets Popular Demand Only He Says

By H. G. O.

Had Hugh Walpole at his recent appearance in Middlebury announced as his lecture subject "Naughty Novels," or if W. Jennings Bryan had dignified his illuminating remarks on evolution by the title "Baboons and Babies" we are quite certain that the population of Middlebury would have gravitated for the nonce to Mead Memorial Chapel.

Not long ago Miss Elizabeth Drew of Oxford spoke on "George Bernard Shaw" and was greeted by an audience which was as small as it was select, and it was very select. If Miss Drew had wanted the large audience which she so well merited someone should have warned her to announce that she would treat of the "Perspicacity of Mrs. Warren's Profession." That would have assured a capacity bald headed row. But we are thankful that these aforesaid eminents did not follow the road to vociferous and facile popularity. We cannot say the same of Mr. Werrenrath. His program was openly and avowedly a truckling to that maudlin sentimentality of taste, misnamed popular demand.

If Mr. Werrenrath had been a mediocre artist, we should have expected him to offer what he did, but knowing him for the fine musician that he is, capable of the best in vocal art, we consider that his program was entirely unworthy of his talent.

There was not one song that one could call really great in his whole list of pieces. Some were good, others pleasing, the rest indifferent. But Schubert, Brahms, Wolff, Beethoven, the old French and Italian arias—one would think they never existed. If Mr. Werrenrath tho't that he must sing "down" to a Middlebury audience he certainly succeeded—he went far below their depth.

The pity of the whole situation is simply this, that those immortal melodies of Beethoven, the lieder of Schumann and Brahms are actually more enjoyable to the Lyro if adequately presented than are any "Houses of Dreams" or "Gypsy Trails." Besides they are infinitely more worth while.

We are not concerned with the fact that music must be "classical" to be good, but we are concerned with the fact that what is best and finest can also be the most popular. No musician endears himself to anyone whose opinion counts for anything by pandering to an imagined demand. He demeans himself and his art, and ultimately brings about his own deterioration. That is an inexorable law and more than one artist, not less great than Werrenrath, has suffered thereby.

We have emphasized this unpleasant feature because we do not want Middlebury to think that they stand for nothing higher in art than Mr. Werrenrath thought they did. Middlebury demands the best of an artist and is not deceived by half-attempts or excuses for music.

Criticism of his singing would be eminently unjust, for Mr. Werrenrath was evidently laboring under physical

GERMAN REPARATIONS TO BE DEBATED TONIGHT

"Resolved, that the attitude of France as regards reparations is justifiable," is the question to be debated by the Wetherell Debating Club in its regular meeting tonight in Old Chapel from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. Two teams captained by Gallagher '23 and Toleman '24 will take the floor on opposing sides of this question. The affirmative which will debate the cause of France, is to consist of Gallagher G. Austin and Shepardson; the negative, of Toleman, Collins '26, and Wheeler. Everyone is invited to come and hear this timely question discussed.

At the meeting last week on Thursday night, the question of the one-year rule in athletics was ably treated by Mr. Gallagher, the others present not being fully prepared to give their views pro and con concerning this question at the time.

St. Michael's Cagers To Meet 'Varsity Saturday

Winooski Five Lose Game to Vermont By 28-18 Tally—Frosh-Saints Meet In Preliminary Game

St. Michael's 'varsity quintet will face the Black Panther cagers in the McCullough Gymnasium next Saturday night, in the second game of the first round of the state championship series. The Winooski aggregation displayed very little of their old time fight when they met the U. V. M. outfit a short time ago. The contest ended with the Saints on the short end 28-18.

Not only have Coach Smith's wards displayed a brand of attack which has seldom been seen here, but they likewise exhibited an offensive that is bound to bring success to their efforts. The strain of the long Western trip told on the 'varsity hoop artists, and now having had a week to regain their former strength and power, they are ready to meet the visitors on somewhat advantageous terms. The 2 point difference in last Wednesday's score, came about chiefly as a result of free throws. Coach Smith has shifted his brand of attack so that this fault has been reduced to a minimum.

In all probability Coach Smith will start Captain Leonard and Holquist at guard positions, with Sikorski in the center birth, and Axtell and Knowles filling up the forward sections. It is doubtful if this combination will be shifted much during the remainder of the year as the five men just named have shown up particularly well in the past games. No word has been received from Winooski as to who will start from the Saints, although it is thought possible that the quintet that started against the Green and Gold five will do the initial work here.

St. Michael's High School will meet the Freshmen quintet in the preliminary game which will start promptly at 7:00 p. m. The 'varsity contest will start at 8:00 p. m.

LACALLE RETURNS FROM SPAIN-MAKES PLANS FOR SCHOOL

Seven Granada University Profs. To Give Courses

OPENS JULY 16

Spanish School to Locate at Washington Irving Hotel

Professor J. Moreno-Lacalle, Dean of the Spanish School, returned last Saturday from Spain where he went to make arrangements for the establishment of the section of the Spanish School in Granada, Spain. The president and faculty of the University of Granada cordially pledged their official cooperation and support for the success of the undertaking. After several conferences with the president of the University and the professors of the School of Philosophy and Arts, seven of the most distinguished members of the University of Granada were selected to give the courses in Spanish Philology, Spanish Literature of the Seventeenth Century, Spanish Civilization, Spanish Geography, Spanish Contemporary Life, Spanish Arabian Art, Spanish Pedagogy and Practical Commercial Spanish. The home of the school will be the Washington Irving Hotel which is located in the Alhambra proper.

The municipal authorities of Granada have also welcomed the enterprise and propose to place the city at the disposal of the Middlebury students and to arrange for them a series of entertainments, dances and picnics, including a typical Arabian-Granadian feast. The municipal government has also created a prize called the Premio Granada to be awarded to the best student in the school. Of all these plans the Art Club of Granada is an enthusiastic supporter and the municipal authorities and other persons prominent in official life will unite in extending hospitality to the students of the school, who will thus be given an opportunity to study intimately the home and family life of Spain.

In Madrid Professor Lacalle interviewed the most prominent men of letters and art, several of whom have agreed to deliver lectures before the Granada section of the Middlebury Spanish School. Thus all the necessary details for the successful opening of the school have been taken care of.

One group of students will sail from New York June 21st, landing at Vigo, and another group will sail on June 30th. Both groups will meet at Granada for the opening of the School July 16th. The School will close on August 14th, after which date the students will tour through the Peninsula and part of France, arriving in New York Sept. 8.

After visiting Granada, Professor Lacalle stopped at Seville and Cordova before proceeding to Madrid.

Undergrad Meeting Last Night

The adoption of recommendations for a change in the system of cuts; the election of Cruickshank '24, as manager of football for 1923; and the voting on assistant manager of football, featured the meeting of the Undergraduate Association in the McCullough Gymnasium last night.

The vote on assistant manager of football did not return a majority for any of the four candidates, Bassett, De Groff, Banks and Brown. The vote gave Bassett and De Groff the lead, and President E. S. Kalin '23, stated last night that a meeting would be held next week to decide the matter

Results of Brown Univ. Tests Agree With Grades

Women Beat Men in Psychological Exams—Brown Men Have Slight Edge on Midd

The results of the Brown University psychological tests which were given to the students of the freshman class early last fall have been received by Deans Wiley and Ross, and any student may receive his own grade by calling at their respective offices. The statistics published below portray very graphically the general results and their relation to the students' academic grades. The first column divides the students into groups according to their marks in the psychological tests, while the last three columns of figures show how many A's, D's, and E's were received by the students of each group.

Men's College

Group	No. of Students in Group	Mid Semester Grades A	D	E
80-85	4	9	1	0
70-80	22	13	15	4
60-70	32	17	26	6
50-60	24	5	21	10
40-50	13	2	15	8
30-40	8	0	8	5

Women's College

Group	No. of Students in Group	Mid-Semester Grades A	D	E
80-90	4	8	2	0
70-80	18	20	1	0
60-70	30	32	15	2
50-60	10	5	6	0
40-50	3	2	1	1

It will be noticed that the percentage of E's increased, and the percentage of A's decreased with the decline in the grades received in the psychological tests. The tabulation following compares the results of the tests here, both in the Men's and Women's colleges, with those obtained at Brown University, where 900 men were included in the examination. The first quartile is the grade of the person located one-fourth the way up the list arranged according to rank; the median, of the one who holds the mid-position; and the third quartile, of the one three-fourths the way from the bottom.

23-23 Tie Broken in Last Minute of Play by Yarnell's Lucky Tallies From Foul Line

LEONARD CAPTURES 21 OF 23 POINTS

Blue Loses Lead at End of First Half—Then Unable To Break Solid Green And Gold Defense

Fighting tooth and nail up to the very finish, the Black Panther was forced to yield to her powerful rival by the lake in a hot and exciting game on McCullough Gymnasium court by a 25-23 tally. Exhibiting a brand of ball in the last period which was entirely superior to anything the Vermonters had to offer, Captain Leonard tried in vain to rally the 'Varsity and to break through the solid five-man defense which his opponents threw out. And indeed he did break through for two baskets, one a clever toss from over the head, but he lacked support and was unsuccessful in further attempts to approach the basket. With but a minute to play, the score being tied 23-all, Dame Fortune seemed to be on the side of the Upstaters, two successful free tries by Yarnell clinching the game.

Captain Leonard was high point man of the game, reaping 21 of Middlebury's 23 points. Both teams displayed a wonderful brand of guarding, it being almost impossible to pass the foul line during the first half. While Vermont showed to advantage in her floor work, the glaring weakness of Yarnell at foul shooting prevented the Upstaters from running up a higher score than was the case. Leonard, for Middlebury, on the other hand, coolly caged the ball 15 times out of 17 free tries. The cutting in of both teams, combined with fast checking, helped to keep the score down.

The 'Varsity started the game with a fast offense lead by Leonard, who made 6 of the team's 8 points in the first half. Prospects were bright for the Blue until, toward the last of the half, their attack weakened and their checking work failed to bring about the results their former team-work had done. Quick to accept their advantage, the Vermont five came up from behind, overcame their opponent's lead, and forged ahead to the extent of 5 points, the half ending with the score reading Middlebury 8, Vermont 13.

The second half opened with the Green and Gold tightening their five-man defense to the limit, bent on holding the lead already gained. Cayward, left guard, enlarged the lead by dropping in 2 baskets from close under. The 'Varsity balanced this with 2 more, gained by Captain Leonard's energetic attempts to break the Vermont defense. The score fluctuated but Middlebury was never far behind, due to her captain's unexcelled skill at shooting fouls. With Axtell and Holquist out of the game on account of personal fouls, the Blue was greatly weakened. With a minute to go, and the score tied 23-all, it seemed that the game would surely result in a tie; but two unfortunate fouls, taken advantage of by Yarnell, dispelled all hopes

THE HOSPITAL-WHERE IS IT?

The difficulty encountered during the past week in properly caring for the large number of students ill on both sides of the Hill, brings to the fore an old problem which it behooves those in authority to remedy. The need of an infirmary, with trained nurses in attendance, has been one of the complex problems facing the College for some time. It has been shifted to a committee. It has rested there as if it were a dead and settled matter.

The College Catalogue, issued during the past week, states that there is $115,000, contributed chiefly by Mr. William H. Porter, a member of the Board of Trustees, now in the hands of the College Treasurer for the purpose of erecting a modern, fireproof hospital. The phrase "Plans are already under way," has been added for the past three or four years. Surely three years is sufficient time to make plans for such a building. If many more years pass before the erection is begun, the modern building, planned three years ago, will be out-of-date and Middlebury will have a second-rate hospital.

The Administration used good judgment coupled with foresight in an attempt to solve the problem, when it provided members of the Women's College with a trained nurse. The nurse is one of the chief assets to members of the Women's College, chiefly because she is able to ward off the spreading of diseases, and moreover, to see that those ill are taken of properly. see that those ill are taken care of properly.

The Men's College is in need of such a service as well as the Women's College. On one day alone, during the past week, thirty-five members of the Men's College were confined to their rooms on account of illness. Over twenty of these cases were at Hepburn Hall alone. Are not these facts sufficient to show the need of a trained nurse for the Men's College?

The providing of trained nurses for both Colleges is the only alternative the Administration has, until such time as the Porter Hospital is built. The interest from the Porter Hospital fund could provide this service, in a measure, at least. The need has been called to the attention of the Administration. What they will do about it remains to be seen.

SUPPORT THE SAXONIAN!

The high quality of the work being done by The Saxonian Board, as shown in the Christmas number of the literary magazine, deserves the support of every student and alumni. A publication of this nature cannot, however, continue without the proper support from these two sources. If you have not already subscribed to The Saxonian, send your subscription to the Business Manager today, and in this way aid in keeping alive the magazine which will show the real worth and ability of Middlebury students.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE SPIRIT?

The unbelievably small number of competitors who have thus far entered the Song Contest of the Women's College is a fact greatly to be wondered at. It seems almost certain that the women of the college do not realize the true nature of the contest and therefore are not awake to their responsibility in the matter. For this contest is not a mere contest; it is a challenge to college loyalty.

The need for a college song book has been discussed so often that any further mention of it is needless and superfluous. But in order to have a song book it is necessary to obtain new songs of different kinds and for different occasions, in addition to those which already exist. This is the purpose of the new contest. In limiting its request to songs symbolic of life in the Women's College it is a direct appeal to them. But how have they answered it?

The Middlebury women have always had the reputation of possessing in full measure those famous qualities "pep" and "college spirit." Their reputation is now at stake and it is a golden opportunity, indeed even a necessity, to defend it by entering the contest.

The appeal to loyalty to the College as a whole and to the Women's College in particular ought to be a strong enough urge to induce the women to make an effort to meet this demand. Will they fulfill the obligation resting upon them?

JOIN THE OUTING CLUB!

The weather of the past week reminds us forcibly of the fact that winter is here. The heavy blanket of snow over the campus, accompanied by these keen, cold days, gives one an excellent opportunity to enjoy out-door sports to the utmost. Yet there is always a tendency to remain inside within sight of a steam radiator when it is so cold outside that one must exert himself to keep warm. However, there is no tonic equal to the sharp north wind, no appetite-producer like exercise out-of-doors in winter.

The problem which besets all of us, especially at this time of the college year with exams threatening, is, in what way can we spend the twenty-four hours of the day most profitably? With this question in mind, we are not likely to include daily outdoor exercise in our program, but if we stop and think of the real value of such exercise in its effect on our efficiency in study and classroom, we shall see that, after all, time spent thus is indeed profitably spent.

The Outing Club takes care of winter sports in an organized way, and there is a chance for all to become allied with it. A new skating rink has been set up on the old tennis courts, providing an opportunity for ice enthusiasts to enjoy their favorite sport. Moreover, there is the whole countryside available for skiing and snowshoeing. Two hours spent every day in the open will put new life and color into the palest specimen that walks the campus. We are willing to hazard a guess that a large part of the epidemic of sickness which seems to have been working havoc on both sides of the hill would have been averted, had everyone practiced the winter outdoor habit to a greater extent.

Dear Ed:

This is a dawgone funny world, and that's a fact. When I went home at Christmas I found the girl that I left behind was way ahead of me. So I decided to get wised up to the funny ways of the world, and if possible become one of the funny things in it.

Confidentially, Ed, old boy, these co-eds are funny things too, now aren't they? I know you've got "em" doped out pretty well around here, and I want to get your advice on how to treat "em" rough. You see I took a fair co-ed out to dinner the other evening and was determined that I was going to treat her rough, and between you and me I slipped up miserably.

It was like this, Ed; I succeeded in being real rough on the way to the tavern. I successfully said "Gosh" four times, and spit on the sidewalk like a veteran cave man. Everything was going fine until the waitress trotted out some soup. Now I've never had much experience at eating soup like a cave man, and was kind of caught out of position. I got along fairly well until I came to an oyster in the soup, and that finished me. I couldn't get away with that oyster, in cave man style, to save my life. I knew I was beaten but managed to get thru the dinner. I don't know how I did it but I staggered thru to a weak finish.

We no sooner finished, however, than she carelessly informed me that I had neglected to offer her a cigarette. Now Ed, at that moment I didn't own a "Perfection." I blabbered out an excuse, and as soon as possible rushed her up on the hill to the stately abode wherein the fair ones reside. It certainly was a tough night for me, and I figured I got the worst end of it. Now you know I've got the stuff to be a cave man, and if you will give me the dope as how to eat soup I'll be all set. Oh! I also want some pointers on the way I should act when a woman asks me for a cigarette, and I haven't got one. Now if you will oblige me with the necessary information I will show

Apollo Club Shortly To Adopt New Constitution

Organization of Classical Students Anxious To Resume Activities

The Apollo Club will hold a very important business meeting tomorrow night in the Latin room of Old Chapel at which the constitution which the advisory committee has drawn up will be presented for approval. The purpose of this constitution is to give the club a closer-knit organization and to make the student members responsible for its existence rather than to depend on one of the faculty to shoulder the burden of carrying on the Club, as Professor Sanford has done in the past.

The purpose of the Apollo Club as stated in the preamble of the proposed constitution is: "To foster interest in, and promote appreciation of classical literature and art; and to present interesting phases of ancient life." In order to become a member, a student must be a Junior or Senior who has taken courses in Latin, Greek, or Fine Arts. Any member of the faculty in any of these departments may also be a member of the Club.

The proposed constitution provides for a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer to be elected each year, and an advisory committee to be chosen at the first meeting in the year. This committee is to have 5 members, at least 2 of whom must be Juniors. Its duties will be to arrange the meetings of the Club, to authorize the expenditure of funds raised by the collection of dues, and to act in a general advisory capacity. At least 6 regular meetings a year are provided for. This constitution, which thus centralizes responsibility upon the officers of the Club, will go into effect as soon as adopted by two-thirds of the members present at any regular meeting.

PLANS OF GREEN MT. CLUB CRYSTALLIZING

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the Green Mountain Club at the Addison House, Wednesday, Jan. 10: President, A. S. Harriman, principal of the Middlebury High and Graded Schools; vice president, Dr. H. I. Slocum; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. V. C. Harrington; chairman of trail committee, Prof. P. C. Voter. After hearing the reports of the trail committee, plans for the new year were discussed.

Chief among these is the rebuilding of Lake Pleiad Lodge, for which purpose lumber has already been hauled to the top of the mountain. The trail committee also plans to relocate 4 miles of trail south of Sucker Brook over Romance Mt., White Rocks, and Mt. Horrid, running it along the skyline of the range. They hope to do the same with the trail from Lake Pleiad north to Emily Proctor Lodge, making the trail truly "skyline," as its name would indicate.

Another project which the Club plans to do is the fitting up of a natural lodge at Silent Cliff where there is a cave sufficiently large to accommodate from 10 to 12 people. This shelter will provide an excellent stopping-place for hikers who wish to stay over night at the Cliff.

At the meeting of the general Club, which convened at Rutland last Saturday, it was voted to have the Long Trail cleared of underbrush throughout its entire length from Bennington to Johnson early in the spring. Professors Voter and White were reelected trustees of the Green Mountain Club at this meeting.

DR. THOMAS TELLS OF MEAD CHAPEL

Former President Makes It Theme of Vesper Sermon

Donor Desired It To Symbolize Christian Faith and Character

"Governor Mead intended that Mead Memorial Chapel should be a symbol of Christian faith and Christian character," said Pres. Thomas when speaking at the Sunday Vesper service. "It was built on the highest spot on the campus that it might more truly be a great symbol for the college. If this chapel is to be a true symbol, then it must mean that Christian faith and character will be the most prominent in all those who are connected with Middlebury College.

"What two possessions are of the greatest value in the life of a man?" asked Dr. Thomas. "Good health, reasonable prosperity, satisfactory occupation, good taste in art and music and culture are all desirable possessions, but there are two things which are valuable above all others.

"First, comes the good will of our fellow men, the respect of those about us and the admiration of those who know us. Goodwill is the most valuable treasure you can seek. Your success depends upon how much likeableness there is in you. You must subdue and put away selfish and foolish desires and the peace and satisfaction that comes to you will make it worth while. Life is hard, and the time will come when you will need the hand of a friend and then the significance of the value of goodwill will come to you.

"The second most valuable possession is the power of achievement, the ability to do and achieve something worth while. What we produce shows what worth there is in our life. How we admire the men who have power! How we admire a Cornwall boy named Hudson, who had the power to overcome difficulties and who is now an

AD BOARD VOTE ATHLETIC CHANGE-FACULTY APPROVE

At a meeting of the Administration Committee, Dec. 14, 1922, i was voted to recommende to the faculty that the following measure be adopted.

"Any student who is known to receive special financial assistance because of athletic ability will be declared ineligible to represent the college in athletic contests."

This ruling was put into effect by the faculty at its meeting, Jan. 4.

CAMPUS CONSTITUTION SOON TO BE PRESENTED TO STU. G.

A new constitution for The Middlebury Campus Board which has been needed for the past 3 years, was recently completed and presented to some of the members of the present staff for their approval. It is expected that the Student Government Association will act upon the new constitution in the near future, after which it will be presented to the Student Council of the Men's College for approval.

The final step is the adoption of the constitution by the Campus Board. It will go into effect at once. The new provisions of the constitution are: a staff of unlimited number, positions thereon dependent on the completion of a stated amount of work and the successful passing of an examination; the creation of a new office of Managing Editor, to be elected during his freshman or sophomore year and serve as Editor-in-Chief following his year as Managing Editor; and the creation of an office of Advertising Manager to serve as Business Manager during the year following his services in this office.

A discussion of the "Modern Girl" was lead by Miss Helen Lingham '24, at the Y. W. C. A. meeting last night.

SMITH COLLEGE PROF. GIVES VOCATIONAL LECTURE TO WOMEN

First Of Series Given In Mead Chapel Wednesday

SOCIAL WORK TOPIC

Tells of "The Kingdom of Evil" in Address

Mr. Everett Kimball of Smith College in his speech Wednesday afternoon in Mead Memorial Chapel on "The New Social Work and the New Social Worker," define social service as "the attempt to remedy the maladjustments of the unfortunate." Mr. Kimball then proceeded to enlarge and explain this theory by reference to a prominent social service reform work called, "The Kingdom of Evil," which divides the field of social service into provinces.

The first province, poverty, is where social work first began. The second province, of legal entanglements, has to do with the innocent sufferers. Third comes the province of vice, or bad habits. The fourth, ignorance, means false education rather than lack of knowledge. Lastly comes the province of disease which makes the other provinces so popular; for the large and important field of mental diseases has been found to be the underlying basis of poverty, vice, etc. Therefore social service has sought to go to the root of the trouble and not only ferret out the disease but teach the victim the way back to normality and a useful citizenship. The new social service and the new social

MARGARET GRAHAM SPEAKS At Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Miss Margaret Graham '23, was the speaker at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last Tuesday evening. She told of her experiences last summer as a settlement worker in the South End House in Boston. Miss Graham began by giving a brief history of the origins of settlement work, by describing the arrangements of the South End House buildings and by explaining briefly the organization of the work carried on there.

Then she spoke in some detail of the various phases of the work with which she was most familiar, the theatricals the picnics in the country, the clinics of different kinds and the children's playground. She said that the most interesting part of her duties was the case work which enabled her to go into the homes of the people the settlement was attempting to serve and which thus gave her glimpses into the lives of many different classes and many different nationalities.

Mr. E. F. Clymer To Speak On Investment Banking

Dean Wiley Arranges Definite Dates For Other Talks

"The New York Stock Exchange from the Inside" will be the subject of a vocational lecture by Mr. E. F. Clymer of the brokerage firm of Hornblower and Weeks of New York. Mr. Clymer will speak in the Chemistry lecture room Friday afternoon at 4:15 p. m. Dean Edgar G. Wiley has secured a large number of other speakers for succeeding lectures and will make more definite announcements with regard to them in the near future.

Mr. Clymer will explain the work of brokers and tell how the business of investment banking is carried on. The lecture should prove very interesting as well as instructive, as few people know anything of the business carried on by investment bankers. Coming as he does from a well known firm, Mr. Clymer will be well fitted to talk on the subject.

Dr. George M. Wiley, Assistant Commissioner of Education in New York State, will speak on "Teaching as a Profession," on Feb. 7. Mr. Wiley has been connected with educational work in New York for some time. He has been the principal of several schools, State Inspector of High Schools, and is now Assistant Commissioner of Education. As Dr. Wiley has had an op-

Choice of a Career

From the Yale News

THE NINETY-FOUR

Someone, probably an insurance agent, was quoted recently as saying that from the mass of one hundred college graduates one individual only rose to the Polo and butler class, perilously near the top of the financial ladder. Five others became comfortably off and found themselves after twenty years at the small yacht and chauffeur stage. The other ninety-four presumably congregate in the great section of the American people who drive their own Buicks to the golf club. In other words, dreaming about being a rich man is one thing, and making the grade is "something else again."

Yet the ninety-four presumably work just as hard as the sumptuous six. Their business is the axis on which a small and uninteresting world revolves. They have become devotees of the dollar and when that fickle deity deserts, have nowhere else to turn. Jammed in a dull, straight rut of business they can never leave the road and jump the fence into finer fields of life. This, then, is the portion of ninety-four men out of every hundred now on the campus.

The answer to the problem lies in the proper choice of a career.

Between now and Commencement we shall have something to offer on the subject of "Careers." Watch for the space with the Famous Signature.

handicaps. His voice, while nearly always under sure control, seemed sometimes a bit rough. But "Duna" was as lovely a bit of mezza voce work as we have ever been privileged to hear.

Mr. Werrenrath's art is always sane and intelligent. While there is nothing of the exotic, never any plumbing of emotional depths, there is, on the other hand, no exaggeration of sentiment. He accomplished his best work of the concert in the "May Day Carol," and in the "Irmelin Rose." The Carmen aria was essentially not at all suited to his voice or his style.

Harry Spier played adequate accompaniments, but his solos, with the exception of the Chopin Nocturne, given as an encore, were quite superficial.

THE PERISCOPE

my appreciation by presenting you with a bottle of Haig'n Haig cough syrup that my grandmother gave me twelve years ago.

Yours in doubt,
Henny.

Dear Henny:

You've got the right idea, these co-eds are funny people and in order to make a hit with them you've got to treat "em" rough. Now spitting on the sidewalk is good cave man stuff but I would suggest tho, that when you spit on the side walk you bounce it a few times and then care free like kick it into the gutter. That generally makes "em" sit up and take notice.

This oyster business is a bit more complicated and generally seems hard at first, but with a little practice it is easily managed. First, you want to shovel away the soup above the oyster like a "gob" would bail out a boat. A soup spoon makes a good weapon for this operation. It is a good plan, however, to hold a fork in your left hand, and as soon as you see any portion of the oyster protruding, jump up, and yell "We Got Em," at the same time dealing the oyster a vicious blow on the head. No sooner do you stun the oyster than you pull a muzzle out of your vest pocket, and slip same gently but firmly over his head. Next you persuasively induce the oyster to accompany you to the fresh air. (It is good dope to knock over a few chairs on your way to the door). Allow the dangerous oyster to regain his breath and when you feel that he has sufficiently regained his normal composture prepare to devour him. Sneak up behind him, and like a flash circle your ivories about his anatomy. You should thoroughly masticate the culprit before you reappear in the dining hall.

After you have swallowed the oyster take a deep breath and step briskly inside. When you enter the dining hall shout, "Alle Oop!" (which is a French phrase meaning "let's go"). Of course, your fair co-ed will be in a daze, caused by the execution of your brave act, and as a means of concealing her admiration for you, she will petition you to allow her to inhale the forbidden weed. Now if you don't happen to have a cigarette with you, pull out a plug of tobacco from your coat pocket and volunteer to let her smoke your corn cob pipe for a while. If this doesn't produce the desired effect, you still have a couple of sticks of T. N. T. in your back pocket that she can munch on or pick her teeth with. You want to try this method Henny, and you will be surprised at your sudden jump in her esteem. If I am a judge at all your popularity among the fair co-eds will be the envy of all your fellow friends.

I am glad you asked my advice Henny, and wish you success in the future. Remember always put your best foot forward, and if you ever get time drop up to my cave.

Your friend,
The Ed.

authority on the greatest writer of English literature, Shakespeare! And how we admire Mr. Hepburn who had the power to do and achieve great things!

"To have good friends and to do something." continued Dr. Thomas, "that is worth while, that is the secret of living. How can we obtain these treasures? Not by birth; not by luck or fortune; not by fraud and cleverness, but by merit. We have the friends we deserve and we achieve what we deserve. Merit means character; it means honor. What a man believes, determines what he is. The way these things of great value are obtained is by usefulness and by service.

"Let the chapel spire which looks down on you stand for a heart and sou' which honors God, a life devoted to Christian duty," concluded Dr. Thomas. "The sermon of the chapel is to believe in God, the Maker and Creator of all things, to believe in Him and in His Son, Jesus Christ. This life is not for what we can get, but for what we can give. This is the message of this chapel. May it burn in our hearts!"

portunity to view the teachers' standpoint from so many different angles the information that he can give us will prove especially valuable.

"The Department Store as a Field for College Men" is the topic of a lecture to be given on Feb. 15, by Mr. H. E. Von Kersburg, employment manager of R. H. Macy and Co. of New York. This is a field that perhaps many men have considered but were not able to get very much information on. This lecture will be the very opportunity.

Felix Frankfurter, professor of Administrative Law at Harvard Law School, who will speak here on "Law as a Profession," on March 2, is listed in "Who's Who" as an Austrian by birth and one who has worked his way up from the ranks to a position of great importance in his profession. From 1911 to 1914 he served as law officer of the Bureau of Insular Affairs at Washington, D. C., from which position he was called to the present chair which he holds at Harvard. Professor Frankfurter is a major and judge advocate of the Officer's Reserve Corps, and in 1918 was appointed Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board. He is the author of "Cases under the Interstate Commerce Act," published in 1915. He comes to Middlebury highly recommended by Dean Pound of the Harvard Law School.

Professor E. P. Warner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak here in the near future on "Aeronautical Engineering." He was in personal charge of the M. I. T. entries in the recent glider contests in France and Germany, and is the writer of an interesting article in a late number of Tech News entitled "Flying Through Europe." All men interested in aviation should not fail to hear Professor Warner when he comes to Middlebury.

The United States Public Health Service will send a man to speak on "The Field of Public Health As a Career." The date for this is as yet unsettled. There are also arrangements under way for lectures on Foreign Trade, Automobile Industry, and several other fields.

worker are working to prevent and restore.

Mr. Kimball, at various points in the lecture, illustrated his facts by actual instances which displayed vividly the conditions that social service meets and is trying to conquer.

Mr. Kimball is a graduate of Amherst, received his M. A. and Ph. D degrees at Harvard and is the author of a number of books on the principles of government.

Professor Kimball's lecture is the first of a series which Dean Eleanor S. Ross is trying to arrange for the Women's College.
